“ My Aunt Virginia, Virginia Augustine Watson Cash, was born into the south in Arkansas. She grew up in a large family during Jim Crow in a misogynistic society but she learned to think for herself and she found her way. She could see through chaos and dysfunction to understand there is a better way and she lived it. She would share her well earned awareness with anyone who would let her. She and I agreed on most issues and that was a comfort to me. Aunt Virginia was passionate about life. She loved to read books. She loved classical music. She loved her children. She loved her extended family. But mostly, she loved. I will always remember her energy and her smile and her laugh. I will always see her as a hero for the courage she used in adopting her values and finding her way. She was right, by the way. She is survived by her sister, Maggie Pauline Watson Stevenson and her brother Dwight Douglas Watson. She was preceeded in death by six Watson brothers, Everett, Vollie, Byron, Dennis, Wayne and Eugene, also three Watson sisters, Hazel Nipps, Jewel Johnson, and Maxine Ulmer. May our love speed you on your way to the arms of our loved ones who are waiting to greet you in gentle passage to a higher prayer. Until we meet again, all my love. Cindy Lou
